

Happy Friday Year R!

For this week's art activity I would like to invite you to make your very own gingerbread man as your teachers have told me you have been learning all about The Gingerbread man in literacy this week. You choose how you'd like to make your gingerbread man, it could be from junk modelling, you could draw or paint it, you could even make a life size gingerbread man of you! Below are some ideas to help you get creative!

Remember to upload your creations to Tapestry and then it will be put onto the school art blog to be seen by all.
